Hosts:

Erin A. Strong is a first-year medical student at the University of Michigan Medical School in Ann Arbor, Michigan and has participated in the AMSA Health Equity Scholars Program (HESP) since 2008 as both a participant and coordinator. The program has been an opportunity to explore topics in health equity and health disparities in the context of public health and preventive medicine, a theme she plans to pursue in her career.

Donovan Williams is a 4th year medical student at the University of Arizona College of Medicine in Tucson, Arizona and this year's Health Equity Leadership Institute (HELI) senior coordinator. He is Navajo and the immediate past national president for the Association of Native American Medical Students. During his medical education he has completed a pathology post-sophomore fellowship at the University of Arizona. Looking ahead, he is looking to match in a internal medicine residency in the coming year with an interest in infectious disease.
