

the New Physician

2011 Editorial Highlights

January-February

Technology in Med Ed

Virtual patients. Medical educators have been building an army of virtual patients. But who will deploy it?

Get the most from classroom tech. Med students, faculty and the digital tools they use to learn and teach.

March-April

Public and Community Health

Community Health Center careers. There could be a job for you in the United States' safety net health system.

Got business sense? You might not need an MBA to make it in medicine, but a little savvy doesn't hurt. Here's how to get it.

Summer

The Creative Issue

Creative Arts Contest. TNP's 17th annual.

The humanities major. Premeds: how you can make the most of your non-science degree.

September

Back to School

In retrospect. Get your year started right with some pass-along advice from the classes ahead of you. (Premeds included!)

Early patient contact. Schools have moved to put med students in front of patients earlier in training. What's the result?

October

Health Disparities

Rural health career challenges. Physicians can face unusual difficulties fitting into rural communities, but that doesn't have to stop you.

Get useful feedback from your preceptors. Constructive criticism may be hard to hear, but at least it will make you a better doctor.

November-December

Global Health and Learning

Medical tourism. Why do patients seek care overseas?

Scrapbook from abroad. Your global experiences, in words and pictures.

Last updated Jan. 10, 2011
TNP's editorial calendar is a working document and is subject to change.

Student Editor

Jack S. DePaolo

Editorial Advisory Board

Brian Freeman
Erol Kohli
Bharat Kumar
Tiffany Stanfill, M.D.

Executive Editor

Managing Publisher

Carol Williams-Nickelson, Psy.D.

Editor

Pete Thomson

Art Direction

TouchThree

Production Manager

Ruth Lipson

Editorial Assistant

Mary Jo Lawrence

Advertising Coordinator

Sandy Hung

Contact us

web www.amsa.org/tnp

e-mail tnp@amsa.org

tel 703 620-6600

fax 703 620-6445

twitter @thenewphysician

mail 1902 Association Dr.
Reston, VA 20191