WHY AMSA?

How is AMSA different from other organizations?

AMSA is the only national, independent, student-led association dedicated to physicians-in-training. When you join AMSA, you become part of a vital force of future physicians who believe that patients and health professionals are partners in the management of health care and that access to high-quality health care is a right, not a privilege.

AMSA has something for everyone! With more than 33,000 members, AMSA is made up of a diverse cross section of the medical student population.

Your voice, opinions, and ideas can make a difference and help change the future of health care and your future patients.

“AMSA provides excellent opportunities for medical students to connect and make the best use of a wide variety of resources available to them. Therefore, it is an organization that I believe every medical student should join, and I want help students do that.”

Aamir Akram

“AMSA has provided me with something no other organization has: a home. It's a place where I was free to voice convictions, to interact with passionate students, and to develop crucial professional skills.”

AMSA EDUCATION

Scholars Programs

Scholars Programs give you the opportunity to study topics not fully addressed in the traditional medical school curriculum and—with input from experts from across the world—develop projects you can implement in your own institution and community.

Events

These in-person events provide opportunities to chart your future course, hone your clinical skills, explore emerging issues, and present your own research. Please visit amsa.org/events for dates and locations.

GET INVOLVED WITH AMSA

Advocacy

Gain and share the skills needed to engage successfully in grassroots organizing, take action on national initiatives, such as National Primary Care Week, or persuade legislators to change health care for the better. AMSA's campaigns and initiatives culminate in an entire day devoted to boots-on-the-ground advocacy at our annual Convention.

National Leadership

Student leaders fuel AMSA. Their energy, time, and dedication determine the association's direction, and their success is rooted in a working knowledge of AMSA, as well as a sense of excitement and determination.

House of Delegates

The House of Delegates is where AMSA's members take ownership of the association. As AMSA's official policy-making body, the House of Delegates brings representatives from each local chapter together once a year at the annual Convention to vote on AMSA's policies and elect our national officers.
